BRITNEY SPEARS'

former fiancé and agent Jason Trawick is still making a buck off the pop princess – even though their love affair crashed and burned.

Apparently desperate for dough, the 40-year-old player is selling items Britney received free as promotional gifts out of the trunk of his car – clothes, handbags, accessories and more, a source close to the singer told The ENQUIRER.

"BRITNEY NEVER EVEN LOOKED at the stuff or cared that Jason took it," said the source. "His home is full of the stuff."

a trunk full of women's apparel to a group of girls in the parking lot of the upscale Fred Segal clothing store in West Hollywood.

The treasure trove included fancy purses, shoes and perfume, but an eyewitness said the girls seemed unwilling to accept anything from Trawick, who once worked as Britney's agent after he was brought in by her dad to watch over the once-troubled performer and her $200 million fortune.

"He loves to use the stuff as a way to reel in women, some as young as 18," said the close source. "Everyone believes he's still taking advantage of Britney."

'HONEY BOO BOO' GOES TO WASHINGTON

THE "Here Comes Honey Boo Boo" clan thinks it's high time President Obama paid them back for the glowing endorsement they gave him before the 2012 election – and they want a presidential pardon!

Alana "Honey Boo Boo" Thompson and the rest of her ragtag redneck family recently took on the nation's capital as part of a tour to promote the reality cutie's new book, "How to Honey Boo Boo: The Complete Guide on How to Redneckognize the Honey Boo Boo in You."

BUT THE ENQUIRER HAS LEARNED THE Thompson tribe was also hoping to swing by the White House so Alana, 7, could ask the president to pardon her daddy, David Michael "Sugar Bear" Thompson, for his past felonies.

As The ENQUIRER previously reported, Sugar Bear was sentenced to five years in Georgia's Montgomery Prison in 1998 for robbing a series of local hunting camps and setting one on fire. Ironically, Sugar Bear LOVES to hunt, but his conviction means he can't possess a firearm in Georgia – unless he's pardoned.

Family matriarch Mama June points out that Alana enthusiastically told Jimmy Kimmel during an appearance on his show last year that she was supporting "Marack Obama" for president – and she believes it's time to cash in her chips.

"The Thompsons actually think Obama owes them a favor," said a source. "June said, 'Alana was on his side when he needed her. Now, we need him to be on OUR side.'"

"And he'd better 'redneckognize' it, if he ever wants this family to speak up for him again!"

The 7-year-old is promoting her book in the nation's capital

RANDY TRAVIS didn't have a chance!

The ENQUIRER learned it came as no surprise to close pals that amphetamine abuse reportedly contributed to his congestive heart failure and the devastating stroke that recently left the country star clinging to life. They reveal that for years he's been surrounded by people who've been busted for drugs – including the lover he calls his "fiancee" even though she's still married.

"Speed is a big problem with Randy's family," a source told The ENQUIRER.

While the nation was focused on the shocking July 16 amphetamine bust of the country star's younger brother, a blockbuster ENQUIRER investigation discovered that Randy's live-in lover Mary Beougher also has a major bust for speed on her record.

Mary pleaded guilty in 2003 to using a forged prescription to obtain phentermine, a form of synthetic speed. Randy's lady – who's still married to Texas dentist Ritchie Dean Beougher – landed in jail in McKinney, Texas, before posting a $1,500 bond on the felony charge.

MARY WAS FACING HEAVY PRISON

time – two to 10 years and a $10,000 fine. But after entering a guilty plea, she ended up with a $1,000 fine, three years' probation and 120 hours of community service.

Last week, in a bombshell exclusive, The ENQUIRER revealed that 54-year-old Randy had been popping amphetamines before the early July medical crisis that insiders fear destroyed part of his brain.

"He was drinking heavily and taking speed to help get through his performances without passing out on stage," disclosed an insider.

It was inevitable he would drown

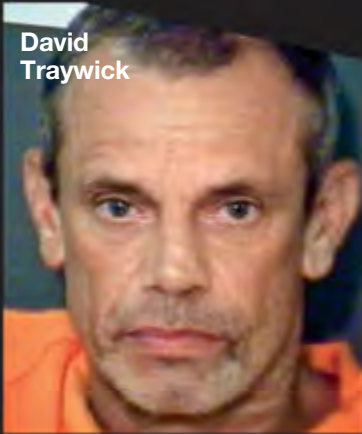

Randy with Mary Beougher

in a sea of drugs, say sources, because amphetamines were everywhere he looked.

On July 16, Randy's brother David Brownlow

Traywick was busted for the SECOND time for allegedly running a methamphetamine lab in his Marshville, N.C., home. He was jailed along with his wife Jessica and friend Christina Marie Stegall. All of them were charged with trafficking methamphetamine. David and his spouse were held on a $500,000 bond and Stegall on a $250,000 bond.

But those busts are just the tip of the iceberg. David (who uses the family's real last name) also had an earlier bust in September 2012 when he was charged with cooking and trafficking in "meth."

His recent arrest came as the "Three Wooden Crosses" singer, the winner of numerous music awards, recovered from brain surgery in a Plano, Texas, hospital.

Concerned relatives are pointing a finger of blame for Randy's downfall squarely at Mary.

The performer's 19-year marriage to his manager Lib Hatcher ended in divorce in 2010 after she caught him cheating with Mary.

Randy's father Harold told The ENQUIRER he blames Mary: "Mary got him drinking and drugging again. When he was with Lib, he was clean and sober for 19 years. Mary destroyed my son's life."

JULIA ROBERTS INTERVENTION

— to save wild child niece

JULIA ROBERTS is so terrified that her niece Emma Roberts is spiraling out of control she's planning an intervention!

Emma — who's 22 and reportedly heavily into the Los Angeles party scene — was busted for domestic violence in Canada on July 7 after allegedly getting into a bloody brawl with her boyfriend, "American Horror Story" star Evan Peters.

Julia was badly shaken by the arrest "and called an emergency family meeting," revealed a family insider.

"Emma's behavior has been out of control for a long time and it needs to stop before it's too late. Julia is going to make sure of that."

AS THE ENQUIRER REVEALED IN April, Emma was devastated after her breakup with then-boyfriend, "Glee" actor Chord Overstreet, and she started down a hard-partying path that has frightened her aunt Julia.

The "Pretty Woman" star has good reason to be worried about Emma's troubling behavior, says the source, as substance abuse runs in the family.

In 2010, Emma's father, actor Eric Roberts — who has wrestled with drug and alcohol problems — appeared on Dr. Drew Pinsky's "Celebrity Rehab" show to kick his longtime addiction to marijuana. But just a year later, Eric released a video supporting the legalization of pot.

"Julia has all the reason in the world to intervene with Emma," said the family insider.

"Emma has absolutely no supervision. Julia told the family that she wants Emma to get help right away."

The "Nancy Drew" star's problem recently burst spectacularly into the open in Montreal when she allegedly assaulted her boyfriend Evan in their hotel room.

A fellow guest, concerned about the screaming and yelling, called the police, who immediately arrested Emma after arriving at the scene.

BUT SHE GOT A LUCKY BREAK.

Even though Evan allegedly had been bitten and had a bloody nose, he decided not to press charges. So Emma was released.

The couple, who are working together on the FX series "American Horror Story," have reportedly patched things up. But Emma has long been dogged by rumors of dangerous behavior.

Confided the family insider: "Julia's greatest fear is that Emma will become the next Lindsay Lohan."

MICHAEL MOORE is giving his estranged wife Kathleen Glynn millions of dollars in their divorce to buy her silence.

The famed documentary filmmaker – who attacks money-grubbing corporations and presents himself as a man of the people – desperately wants to avoid a messy divorce that would spotlight his fabulous riches and luxury lifestyle, a source says.

“The last thing Michael wants to do is go through a long battle that would force him to produce documents that spell out the details of his enormous wealth,” declared an insider.

THE ACADEMY AWARD-WINNING producer/director of “Roger & Me,” “Bowling for Columbine” and “Sicko” filed for divorce from his wife of 21 years on June 17.

Readily recognizable, the 59-year-old political activist sports long hair and wears a signature ball cap. He has created headlines criticizing wealthy conservatives for being “greedy capitalists” who don’t care about the other 99 percent of working Americans.

But an insider says he doesn’t want anyone to know that he is a 1-percenter himself. He reportedly has a staggering net worth of some $50 million, lives in a 10,000-square-foot waterfront mansion in Michigan with its own boat dock – and has another pricey home in Manhattan.

“Michael has denied he is in the top 1 percent of wealthiest Americans, but the truth is he is one of the very rich – the people he loves to hate,” said the source.

“And that’s why he’s planning on paying at least half of his fortune – and maybe even more – to his wife so the private details of his lavish wealth will never be spelled out in their divorce documents.

“There are two Michael Moores. Most of us see the boots-on-the-ground community organizer. But then there is the one who, after a long day of protesting, retires back to his mansion or to his high-rise apartment in New York to live among the very corporate executives he attacks.”

It is doubtful the public will learn much more about his lifestyle. The divorce complaint states the couple does not have minor children together and neither is seeking a spousal allowance or monthly maintenance.

READY TO GET SLIMED?

WANT to age at a snail's pace? A wacky new beauty procedure may be just the thing you're looking for!

The creepy-crawly beauty trend of using snails to clean your skin is now a reality in Japan and Russia. Who knows? Beverly Hills could be next.

A chichi salon in Tokyo has recently started offering a pricey facial treatment that promises to exfoliate the skin, leaving it smooth and supple – by letting giant live snails slither across clients' faces.

And a salon in Krasnoyarsk, Russia, has been doing it since last year!

"Slime from snails helps remove old cells, heal the skin after sunburn and moisturize it," said Manami Takamura, a spokesperson for the Tokyo-based Ciz.Labo chain of spas.

By placing the mucus-producing mollusks directly on the face – one on the forehead and one on each cheek – "you can have 100-percent snail essence directly on the skin."

THE SNAIL "ESSENCE" – OR mucus – contains a potent mix of powerful proteins, antioxidants, collagen and hyaluronic acid, which proponents believe can slough off dead skin, clear pores and restore a youthful, dewy appearance.

The complexion-enhancing properties of snail slime have been trumpeted as far back as Ancient Greece, when the physi-

In modern times, snail-based creams have been popular in Japan and Korea for years, and the trend has already migrated to the West – actress Katie Holmes reportedly used one to help her complexion.

Meanwhile, the salon in Japan calls its 60-minute procedure with live snails "The Celebrity Escargot Course" and charges close to $250. The skin is first cleansed, then

The implementation of the program led to blistering accusations that the school had an affiliation with the controversial church – a charge Will, 44, and Jada, 41, vehemently denied. Will and Jada have previously denied that they are Scientologists.

The school has also struggled with finances, piling up more than $1 million in liabilities by 2011 despite charging its students between $7,500 to $12,000 in tuition. Disgruntled parents charge that the number of kids enrolled was deliberately kept low so the academy would not be subject to state standards.

That triggered an angry reaction from church officials who were – and still are – sensitive to ongoing questions and rumors regarding the whereabouts of Mrs. Miscavige. After that, the church harassed Remini endlessly – and she quit. So here's my question for smiley-face Cruise: If you're really the straight shooter/larger-than-life hero you're cracked up to be, why don't YOU demand proof about Mrs. Miscavige's whereabouts? Exiting London’s swanky Dorchester hotel after a stint at the bar, Sharon Osbourne – with fellow UK “X Factor” judges Nicole Scherzinger and Louis Walsh – somehow ended up barefoot, then took a call on her...er, shoe phone?

■ BYNES CRAZY TIME DEPT.:

Disheveled and wearing a freaky blonde wig, AMANDA BYNES drew a Big Apple crowd when she abruptly tossed her Starbucks coffee, placed the cup on the sidewalk, then started circling it in a soft-shoe shuffle – “loudly rapping ‘The Hokey Pokey’ while fondling herself provocatively,” says My SpyWitness. “When a fan snapped a photo, Amanda went ape-sh** and screamed, ‘What the f*** do you think you’re doing?’ She kept grabbing at the guy’s camera until he agreed to delete the photo if she’d just shut up!” After he erased the pic, Amanda jumped in a cab and took off, screaming at spectators: “You’re all f***** ugly!”

■ TWILIGHT DELIGHT! When

a noisy pool party packed with skinny-dipping guests at a swanky Hollywood Hills mansion blasted on into the wee hours, an enraged next-door neighbor – a 50-ish woman – suddenly stormed over and screamed: “The yelling and loud music HAS TO STOP – or I’m calling the police!” Said My SpyWitness: “She stood there sort of shaking her fists...until she saw ‘Twilight’ stud ROBERT PATTINSON sitting in a Jacuzzi – and her jaw dropped when Rob stood up until the water line barely covered his pelvis. It was SO obvious he had no bathing suit on!” With a cigarette in one hand and a drink in the other, Rob – drawling in his thickest English accent – apologized profusely for interrupting the lady’s beauty sleep. “That did it – she looked like she was about to faint” said the source. “She sat and immediately started billing and cooing about Rob’s work on the ‘Twilight’ movies and his relationship with KRISTEN STEWART. She forgot all about the loud music – until about twenty minutes later, when her husband came barreling onto the property, demanding they shut down the noise immediately!” Wifey tried to introduce Rob, but Hubby bellowed: “I don’t give a f*** who he is – I just want to go to sleep!” That stopped the fun – and the music – as Hubby dragged Wifey back to beddy-bye...And how was YOUR week?

DAZZLING palaces with hundreds of rooms...a fortune in glittering jewels...a private air fleet...and miles of prime real estate.

Those are just a few of the things that Prince William and Kate's new arrival will inherit someday, making the royal tot a Billion Dollar Baby.

"Their son has instantly become one of the richest kids in the world," royal expert Christopher Wilson told The ENQUIRER. "It's mind-boggling."

The Prince of Cambridge, as he'll be known, weighed in at 8 pounds, 6 ounces when he arrived at 4:24 p.m. U.K. time on July 22. William was by his wife's side for the 11-hour labor in the Lindo Wing of St. Mary's Hospital, London.

As a future king, the infant's fabulous inheritance includes a portfolio of royal property assembled 600 years ago that comprises 72 square miles of farm and city land. It's three times the size of Manhattan and valued at an astronomical $570 million.

THE NEWEST ROYAL, WHO'S THIRD in line to the British throne, will be able to survey the property from a fleet of helicopters, two private jets or a posh royal train.

What's more, he will get to enjoy several breathtaking "homes" – Buckingham Palace, Windsor Castle, Sandringham House, Kensington Palace and Scotland's Balmoral Castle.

Catherine, Duchess of Cambridge, gave birth in the Lindo Wing of St. Mary's Hospital, London

The couple met at the University of St. Andrews in 2001

When beautiful art history student Kate Middleton, now 31, met her Prince Charming at the University of St. Andrews in 2001, she never in her wildest dreams imagined she'd become mother to a baby whose wealth exceeds that of oil-rich Arab princes.

"It's Kate's fairy tale – a fantasy come to life," said Wilson, author of the best-seller "The Windsor Knot." "The family also owns the biggest collection of Faberge items in the world, including jewel-encrusted cigarette cases and 300 animals carved in gold – worth $350 million.

The royal family also prides itself on a rare stamp collection valued at around $40 million, plus their race horses – more than 200 of them – that could bring as much as $25 million.

"And don't forget one of the world's great private art collections," said the expert, "or their fleet of limos worth around $700,000."

If the royal duties become tedious, Britain's future

LEGENDARY actress Diahann Carroll is suffering from dementia, The ENQUIRER has learned.

The 78-year-old TV trailblazer – in 1968 she became the first African-American woman to star in her own television series, "Julia" – is still in the early stages of the disease. But a source says her memory loss is increasing, and the still-beautiful actress is devastated because she knows she may never sing again.

"It is such a sad thing to watch," a friend said. "Sometimes she gets confused because she can't remember someone or where she is at the moment. "It's heartbreaking."

Dementia is an irreversible deterioration of intellectual faculties, which affects memory, attention, language and problem solving.

Diahann's last major movie was "Peeples," a Tyler Perry project with "Scandal" star Kerry Washington. It was released earlier this year.

monarch can focus on the family business – a conglomerate of farms and food producers, worth about $280 million.

But perhaps the biggest bounty is the Crown Jewels, which have been safely kept in the Tower of London since the 14th century. Their value is so vast it's impossible to estimate.

For now, William and Kate's tiny son will be content playing with baby gifts from around the world.

"Potentates like the Sultan of Brunei and Arab royal families will express their congratulations with priceless treasures, precious stones, diamonds and gold," said Wilson.

"William and Kate have a billionaire baby with an Aladdin's cave."

"But back then she was not so far gone and worked hard to finish the project. Diahann knows that was the last time she could do a movie, but she still hopes to make cameo appearances. She knows anything more than a line or two could turn into a disaster."

But the stricken star is said to be even more devastated by the realization that she'll never sing again.

"Diahann can't remember all the lyrics to songs anymore," revealed the source. "She hums in her home, but that's it."

Raised in New York's Harlem, Diahann – who was nominated for an Oscar for her performance in the 1974 film "Claudine" – began modeling at 15 and acting at 18. After a career spanning six decades, she was inducted into the Television Academy Hall of Fame in 2011.

The four-times-married actress – who also appeared on the prime-time soap "Dynasty" – is estranged from her only daughter, writer Suzanne Kay Bamford.

"Fortunately," the source added, "Diahann is surrounded by very close, loving friends who will make sure she is taken care of properly and with dignity."

Last year, the Mexican singer's former assistant Felipe Restrepo Betancur claimed in a lawsuit that she beat the hell out of him, and she also became embroiled in a vicious custody battle with her ex-husband.

Felipe told the court that he was supposed to book her on a flight from Miami to Mexico, and she became enraged after he informed her that only coach seats were available.

In her fury, the firebrand, who's sold more than 40 million albums worldwide, allegedly punched, kicked and slapped Felipe. The unfortunate aide claimed he suffered pain and anguish as well as emotional harm, and demanded a whopping $250,000-plus in damages.

In the end, she and her co-defendant paid Felipe's attorney's fees and more than $6,200 he said he was owed for underpaid overtime. The Latina hottie also took on her ex-husband, hiring a private eye to prove he was a bad dad.

According to legal papers filed last December, she asked the court to deny her 2-year-old son's father, Nicolas Vallejo Najera, all custody rights.

She claimed that Nicolas "repeatedly demonstrated detrimental behavior" by smoking around the toddler, taking him outside while he was ill, failing to change his diaper and leaving him in his carriage unattended.

“LOVE STORY” star Ryan O’Neal has put his troubled son Redmond on a crash diet in a desperate bid to save the former heroin addict’s life, say sources.

Redmond, who’s the late Farrah Fawcett’s only child, has gained a whopping 65 pounds since kicking a stubborn drug habit, and his 62-year-old dad is distraught at the prospect of losing him to an early grave.

“Ryan is heartsick over Redmond’s condition,” disclosed an insider. “He vowed to Farrah he’d look out for him.”

RYAN IS THRILLED HIS 28-YEAR-OLD SON is off drugs but worries about his out-of-control appetite.

“It had gotten so bad that Redmond was having chest pains and couldn’t walk long distances,” revealed the source.

The 6-foot-1 redhead dipped below 160 pounds when he was in the throes of his drug addictions but now tips the scales at almost 225 pounds, said the source.

On July 5, his father, who has two other adult sons, was spotted strolling with Redmond on Malibu beach.

Redmond – who’s been arrested numerous times for drug possession as well as a firearms charge – was barely recognizable with a large belly, tree-trunk thick legs and a shaved head.

“He seems to have swapped one addiction for another,” said the source.

As The ENQUIRER reported in April 2012, Ryan is locked in a medical battle, fighting Stage 2 prostate cancer. He also suffers from chronic myelogenous leukemia, which has been in remission since 2006.

Alarmed at his son’s deterioration, the source says Ryan has hired a trainer and a nutritionist to get Redmond off junk food and sodas and onto a calorie-controlled vegetarian diet.

“Ryan realizes he may not have much longer to act,” said the source. “And he wants to leave this world knowing Redmond is thriving.”

CHAZ BONO has gone from flab to fab, but he still can’t find love!

That’s set alarm bells ringing for his mom Cher, who is afraid that Chaz can’t cope on his own.

“Cher is worried about Chaz and his struggle to find a girlfriend,” discloses an insider. “She fears Chaz is so sad and alone that he’s teetering on the verge of a breakdown.”

The 44-year-old transgender icon – who’s dropped 65 pounds since last November – is proud to show off his svelte new physique, but he’s having a tough time landing dates, the source says.

“It’s bittersweet – he’ll be working out at the gym or running errands when he catches a pretty woman’s eye and even chats them up, but he can’t close the deal,” said a source close to the former “Dancing with the Stars” contestant.

“Chaz was hoping to find love the old-fashioned way, by meeting someone through friends or a social function. He’s avoided dating websites, but now he’s seriously considering it.”

AS THIS EXCLUSIVE ENQUIRER photo shows, Chaz is letting it all hang out in the hopes of attracting someone special. But the photo also reveals the scars he bears from his transition from chubby woman to buff man.

As part of his transformation, Chaz – formerly Chastity – underwent a grueling three-hour double mastectomy to remove his breasts. The surgeons then had to sculpt his new chest, which included his nipples being grafted back on to his new body.

“Chaz isn’t trying to fool anyone,” said the source. “He wants the world to know that yes, he was once a woman, but he’s proud as hell to show that he’s now a man.”

Chaz’s last serious relationship, with Jennifer Elia, ended in late 2011. Since then, he has worked hard to improve his image. At his heaviest, Chaz reportedly weighed more than 300 pounds. Now, thanks to some help from the syndicated daytime talk show “The Doctors,” plus a prescription for the obesity drug Qsymia, he is at an all-time low.

His goals now, the source says, are getting to 180 and finding a partner.

“He’s desperate to find a woman that he can build a life with,” added the source. “Unfortunately, love just isn’t in the cards for him yet.”

Blake Shelton HEART SCARE

Miranda is forcing her hard-partying hubby to shape up

Frightening chest pains & GASPING FOR BREATH

MIRANDA LAMBERT is cracking the whip – and forcing her hard-partying hubby Blake Shelton to shape up after a recent heart scare.

The “Boys ‘Round Here” singer has reportedly packed on nearly 50 pounds in recent months, constantly bingeing on junk food and booze.

“Blake had a serious scare recently,” said a source. “He went to bed after a wild night of downing tequila, beer and tubs of fried chicken and woke up in the middle of the night with searing pain shooting from his chest through his arms.

“He was gasping for air for a few minutes before he finally pulled himself together. He called Miranda, who’s been on tour, and she told him to rush to an emergency room.”

FORTUNATELY, THE PAIN PASSED, AND BLAKE LATER attributed it to heartburn or indigestion.

“It was a huge wake-up call, though,” the source said.

A representative for Shelton denied that he had a heart scare.

Miranda, 29, has now set a goal for her 37-year-old hubby to drop 40 pounds by the end of the year, and she’s pushing him to hire a personal trainer, quit drinking and to ease up on work.

“Blake’s lifestyle has become very unhealthy,” the source added, “but hopefully the recent scare will force him to take better care of himself.”

IT's all over for Donny and Marie!
After more than 35 years of showbiz stardom, the legendary brother-sister act may be finished for good.

Sources say a shocking medical crisis and bitter feuding are ripping the Osmond duo apart – and The ENQUIRER has all the stunning details.

The two began fighting like cats and dogs after Marie flipped out over the cancellation of her Hallmark Channel talk show, insiders say. Now Donny faces a grueling six-month recovery from surgery to repair muscle damage. He suffered the agonizing injury when he landed hard on his behind during their Las Vegas act, and family insiders fear he'll never be able to sing and dance like he did before hurting himself.

"Marie tried to put a funny spin on her brother's injury, joking, 'I've always known Donny's a butt, but now he's proven it,'" a source told The ENQUIRER.

"But Donny's injury was very serious, and it may spell the end for the Donny and Marie show in Las Vegas."

THE BABY-FACED 55-YEAR-OLD tore his gluteus maximus muscle while making a running leap onto a piano during their Sin City show at the Flamingo.

"The pain in Donny's back and legs was so severe that doctors advised him to undergo surgery immediately," said the source.

"Now, he's extremely weak and has difficulty moving. He's on anti-inflammatory medication and (the morphine-derived pain drug) Dilaudid. His doctors say he'll need at least three months to heal, and then physical therapy to rebuild his strength, which could take six months or more."

Meanwhile, Donny's older brother Merrill, 60, has replaced him on stage. Donny hopes to rejoin Marie at Caesars in Atlantic City from July 29 to Aug. 11, said the source.

"But if Donny's doctors won't OK him to go back to work, the Atlantic City show will have to be rescheduled," said the source.

show, Merrill – who's struggled on stage – may be replaced by another Osmond brother, either Jay, 58, or Jimmy, 50, added the source.

But Donny is said to be in no rush to get back to work with his famous sibling.

"Since Marie lost her talk show, she's been taking her frustrations out on everyone around her, especially Donny," said the source.

"He just couldn't take it anymore and told a friend, 'With the way Marie's been acting, I'm certainly in no hurry to get back on stage with her.'"

"But Marie's desperate to hang on to the Flamingo show. She knows that audiences want to see the Donny and Marie magic – not just Marie, or Marie with a different Osmond brother.

George could not keep up with superfit Stacy, says a source

WHY CLOONEY ROMANCE DIDN'T SHAPE UP

Stacy's fitness routine DROVE HUNK NUTS

GEORGE CLOONEY dumped his gorgeous girlfriend Stacy Keibler because her intense workout routine was driving him crazy!

That's the REAL reason the couple's nearly two-year romance ended, The ENQUIRER has learned.

Published reports say Stacy, 33, called it quits with the confirmed bachelor because she was ready to start a family. But she denied that, and a well-placed source gave us the inside story.

"GEORGE DOES NOT GET DUMPED," the source revealed. "What he does do with all his soon-to-be ex-girlfriends is let them bow out gracefully, which is exactly what's happened here. They've been over for a lot longer than people think."

According to the insider, George was sick and tired of ex-wrestler Stacy's obsession with staying in shape.

"She'd get up at the crack of dawn every single day without fail and embark on an exhaustive two-hour, pro-sports-style workout routine," the source explained.

"It got to the point where George didn't want to spend the night with her because she would wake him up at 5:30 in the morning to get ready for her workout."

"George tried to keep up with her in the early days, but after about 45 minutes, he was ready to hit the sauna, and she was just warming up." Eating out together was a problem too.

"George would take her to a five-star restaurant in anticipation of a blow-up meal with wine and dessert, and Stacy would just have water and a salad with the dressing on the side," said the source. "She was way too rigid for him when it came to her health."

Now George, 52, is said to be looking for a more low-key lady.

"He's finding that he prefers the company of women in their 40s," added the source. "He wouldn't balk at dating a divorcee of that age who's ready to have some fun."

MARIAH CAREY is spending hours with Arsenio Hall on his upcoming talk show – and her husband Nick Cannon doesn't like it one bit, say sources.

The 44-year-old beauty is helping Arsenio, a friend for more than 20 years, plan the launch of his new late-night show this fall, but Nick is feeling left out, reveal pals.

"Nick genuinely likes Arsenio, but he's intimidated by his close friendship with Mariah," said an insider.

"They've been locked away planning every aspect of the first week of his show."

TIGER WOODS is stuck smack in the middle of a bitter battle between his girlfriend and his ex!

The golf champ had been planning to surprise ex-wife Elin Nordegren and their two kids – daughter Sam, 6, and son Charlie, 4 – during their summer vacation to Sweden. But an insider says his current squeeze, ski champ Lindsey Vonn, was worried he'd cheat with his gorgeous ex – and she demanded he bring her along.

"Elin found out what Tiger was planning and told him he can come to Sweden – but NOT with Lindsey," said the source.

"Meanwhile, Lindsey is convinced that Tiger still has feelings for Elin and, if he got the chance, he would dump Lindsey in a flash and get back together with her."

"It started a huge fight between the women, with Elin saying she doesn't want Lindsey around HER kids," the source said, adding that Lindsey says Elin still wants to control Tiger.

ACCORDING TO RECENT published reports, Elin had given Tiger's new romance her blessing, adding that she believes Tiger "seems happy with Lindsey and she gets on well with their children."

But ENQUIRER readers know the truth!

"Lindsey, Tiger and Elin are still fighting like cats and dogs," our source insisted.

However, Elin, Tiger and Lindsey had made a pact not to say anything negative about each other in public,

TIGER LOVER'S NIGHTMARE

— as cheating golfer plans to vacation with ex-wife

Both women have this Tiger by the tail...and neither one of them is ready to let go” the source said. Elin and Tiger's six-year union came to a bitter end in 2010 after The ENQUIRER revealed his affair with New York party girl Rachel Uchitel, as well as several other women. Tiger ended up forking over $110 million to Elin, 33, in their divorce.

Tiger, 37, and Lindsey, 28, have known one another for a while, but only began dating earlier this year.

And while they appear to be happy, divorced Lindsey said in a recent interview that she will never marry again. Still, she seems to be extremely possessive of Tiger, and it doesn't look like the war between her and Elin is going to cool off anytime soon.

“Both women have this Tiger by the tail,” the source noted, “and neither one of them is ready to let go.”

Elin and Tiger's marriage came to a bitter end in 2010. The womanizer only began dating ski champ Lindsey (right) earlier this year

Although he's a big hit on 'AGT,' Nick feels he's playing second fiddle to Howard Stern and the other judges. He's dying to star on his own show like Arsenio, yet no one takes him seriously.

“Even Mariah is hesitant to help him because she's sensitive about mixing business with their marriage and doesn't want to take the chance that he'll blame her if he fails.”

While Nick has landed gigs outside of “AGT,” for the most part he stays busy taking care of the couple's 2-year-old twins, Monroe and Moroccan.

A rep for Mariah denies Nick's career has led to tension in the marriage, and sources say the sexy entertainer is delighted to be working with her old pal Arsenio.

Quipped the source: “Now all she needs to do is figure out a way to keep her bored hubby happy!”

At 53, Kerry still looks toned

THE NEW CAMELOT

CAMELOT is making waves once again! John F. Kennedy loved his yacht "Marlin" and docked it near the Kennedy compound in Hyannis Port, Mass. The famous clan sold the craft in 1970, but recently a new boat-load of Kennedy ladies used the 52-foot-long wooden vessel to soak up the sun off the Italian coast.

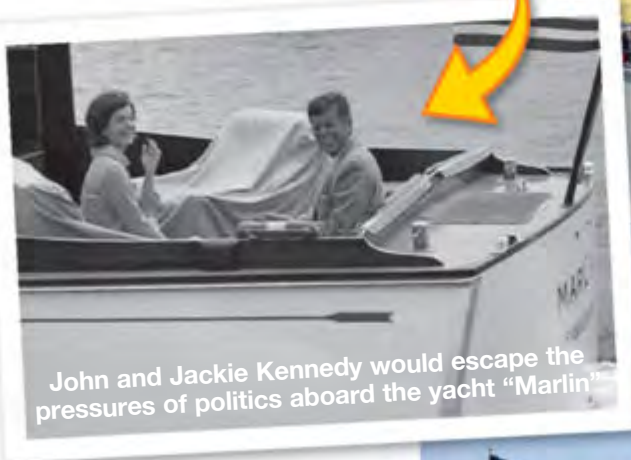

On July 16, Kerry Kennedy, 53 – the seventh of Ethel and Robert F. Kennedy's 11 children – made a splash with her 18-year-old daughter Mariah Cuomo and some friends. The ladies were staying on the island of Ischia for a film festival and decided to work on their suntans aboard the floating legend, now owned by an Italian fashion executive who purchased it for $167,500.

TANNED AND TONED, THE WOMEN exhibited classic Kennedy athleticism, clearly appearing to be ship-shape in their form-fitting swimwear.

The boat was initially acquired by family patriarch Joseph Kennedy in 1952, and John and Jackie Kennedy escaped the pressures of political life by going for breezy rides on Nantucket Sound. As president, JFK invited top officials aboard to discuss key issues in a tranquil atmosphere.

The boat also became a silent witness to history in the making. On a hot August afternoon in 1961,

COUNTRY queen Dolly Parton is hiding secret cancer surgery from her fans!

In a bombshell exclusive, The ENQUIRER can reveal that doctors implanted a state-of-the-art medical device into the 67-year-old superstar's esophagus during a tense five-hour operation.

A source says a terrified Dolly opted to undergo the experimental treatment after a sudden dramatic weight loss sparked fears that she was suffering from deadly esophageal cancer.

"Dolly didn't want her friends, family and fans to worry about her, so the entire procedure was done under the tightest secrecy," a source close to the country music superstar told The ENQUIRER.

"SHERESEARCHEDHERCONDITION and knew that, without treatment, developing cancer was a real possibility. Dolly always projects an upbeat, positive image, but underneath that she was terrified."

Dolly – one of America's most successful and beloved performers – has suffered from gastroesophageal reflux disease, or severe acid reflux, for at least several years, the insider says. The condition can cause heartburn, sore throats, hoarseness, coughs and difficulty swallowing – and it can lead to cancer of the esophagus, medical experts say.

The source says a desperate Dolly finally decided to seek a cure when her weight dropped an alarming 20 pounds, triggering fears that she was stricken with esophageal cancer. The deadly disease claims more than 15,000 lives in the U.S. every year and celebrity victims have included attorney Robert Kardashian, "Family Feud" host Richard Dawson and "West Wing" actor Ron Silver.

"Dolly knew something had to

STAR TREATMENT:
The country music superstar was whisked away in her oversize tour bus from Nashville to the posh Ponte Vedra Inn & Club, where she awaited surgery be done – or she could die," said the source. "Her weight was dropping dramatically, she was chugging antacid medication, and she couldn't eat anything but soft, bland foods."

And, still, every time she ate, stomach acid washed up into her esophagus, triggering nausea and pain, said the source.

"That's especially difficult for a singer," noted the source. "Dolly was afraid that if she didn't get the condition corrected, she'd never sing again – and for Dolly, that would be worse than death. She says she wants to keep singing until the day she dies."

Dolly decided to undergo surgery at the Mayo Clinic in Jacksonville, Fla., revealed the source.

She was driven from Nashville to the posh Ponte Vedra Inn & Club in Ponte Vedra Beach in her oversize tour bus, called the "gypsy wagon," on May 30.

She remained secluded in her luxury hotel suite with a few close associates, ordering room service. She only emerged when it came time to board an unmarked SUV for her ride to the clinic's back entrance, said the source.

Dolly knew something had to be done"

"Dolly was hustled straight out the back door into the SUV," said the source. "No one at the hotel saw her, and her tour bus was hidden during her entire stay in Jacksonville."

DOLLY'S PERSONAL PHYSICIAN flew in from Los Angeles to Jacksonville at the time of the surgery to consult with the surgeons set to implant the device, called LINX, in the ailing singer.

The device was approved by the FDA in March 2012. The Mayo Clinic is one of the first medical centers to offer the experimental treatment, which is designed to help the nearly three million people suffering from chronic gastroesophageal reflux disease.

"Dolly was worried at first that she wouldn't be able to have the procedure," said the source. "When she learned about this treatment, she knew it was her last hope."

The laparoscopic

procedure was conducted under general anesthesia on June 4, said the source. Surgeons made five small incisions in Dolly's abdomen then implanted a ring of tiny magnetic titanium beads around the junction of the stomach and the esophagus. The beads allow food to be swallowed but block the flow of acid back into the food pipe.

During the operation, "surgeons discovered masses of scar tissue, which had to be removed and biopsied for cancer cells," said the source.

"The procedure was supposed to last just two hours, but it took five. When it was over, Dolly said she wanted to get on her bus and head home that same day. But the doctors insisted that she stay overnight for observation, and the next day Dolly walked to her bus and climbed on board for the eight-hour trip back to Nashville.

"She told friends there, 'It went very well. I'm going to be fine.'"

But medical experts warn that Dolly may not be completely cured, and she'll need to undergo regular endoscopies to check for abnormalities.

"The device does not eliminate stomach acid," Dr. Jerome Spunberg, radiation oncologist from West Palm Beach, Fla., who has not treated Dolly, told The ENQUIRER.

And Dr. Jamie Koufman, author of "Dropping Acid: The Reflux Diet Cookbook & Cure," questioned the cutting-edge procedure because it's so new. Koufman, who has not treated Dolly, warned that a future scope could possibly reveal "tiny titanium beads floating around the esophagus," which meant the device fell apart.

Meanwhile, Dr. Peter Green of the Celiac Disease Center at Columbia University Medical Center, who has not treated Dolly but is a leading authority on gastrointestinal diseases, told The ENQUIRER: "Having the procedure does not prevent esophageal cancer. She will need to be closely monitored."

The petite 5-foot-1 singer has already undergone further tests in Los Angeles, but she's still very thin, said the source.

"Dolly may not weigh even 100 pounds, but she has a clean bill of health so far," said the source.

"While doctors told her the scar tissue showed no signs of cancer, they want to continue monitoring her carefully. She'll need regular checkups for the rest of her life."

Kris Jenner BOOZE HELL

The reality TV star is no stranger to hard-core partying

Kardashian mom VOMITED on designer duds & BLACKED OUT on dirty floors

KRIS JENNER has finally gone over the edge!

The Kardashian matriarch's boozing has gotten so bad that her frightened relatives fear she's spinning wildly out of control and headed for a devastating tragedy, a source says.

"Kris is heading into a free-fall," disclosed a family insider.

"She sometimes drinks champagne at the office in the morning and, by nighttime, she's slurring her words, falling over furniture and occasionally doesn't even recognize the faces of her own kids!"

AN ENQUIRER INVESTIGATION HAS ripped the lid off the Kardashians' heartbreaking family secret – the 57-year-old "momager's" benders have gotten so alarming that insiders fear for her health.

The once tough-as-nails mother of six is said to be cracking under the pressures of managing her family's empire and helming her own new talk show.

Daughter Khloe, 29, admitted recently that: "One time I went out with my mom, and my mom got totally drunk...shocker."

"I was driving her home...My mom ends up throwing up out the window and we're on the freeway, so it came back in the car on me."

Khloe was furious because the vomit not only destroyed Kris' expensive outfit but also her own, which was worth thousands of dollars, divulged the source.

Another time, sources say Kris downed a few vodka cocktails and began dirty dancing with her daughter Kim's baby daddy Kanye West.

"In front of her kids, Kris said to a visibly disturbed Kanye, 'If you weren't already taken, I'd snatch you up,'" revealed the source.

"Kim raged at her mom, 'Did you really just hit on the father of my baby?'"

Then there was the time that Kris apparently overdid it at a Mexican restaurant. She got so drunk that she passed out under a table on the floor of Khloe's house – insisting she wanted to sleep there, and the next day only remembered bits and pieces of what happened.

"Sometimes Kris wakes up in the middle of the night, crumpled in a ball on the dirty bathroom floor and has no idea how she got there," said the source. "It's pathetic."

Sadly, Kris – who has been chain-smoking despite a family history of cancer – also has booze problems in her family tree. Her stepdad Harry Shannon was a raging alcoholic.

In her 2011 memoir, "Kris Jenner...and All Things Kardashian," Kris recalled how she and her sister cowered in fear as Harry pounded on the windows and door of the family house during a violent, drunken rage.

After that night, Kris' mother nearly pulled the plug on the relationship but gave Harry another chance to give up drinking – and thankfully, he did.

"Unfortunately, Kris' situation may not end on such a positive note," warned the insider. "She's in total denial about having a problem."

SCHOOLBOY IS KIDNAP HERO

If you think today's teens are lazy, shiftless and up to no good, Temar Boggs may just change your mind.

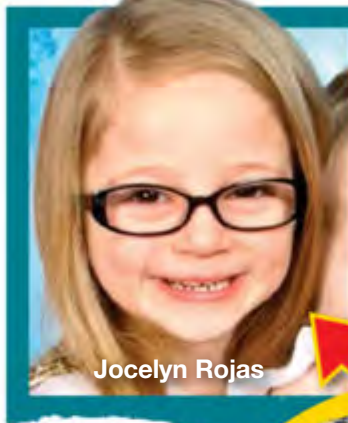

The brave 15-year-old from Lancaster, Pa., proved to be a true hero when he hopped on a bike to track down and rescue a 5-year-old girl who had been kidnapped from his neighborhood.

The nightmare unfolded on July 11, when little Jocelyn Rojas was snatched from her apartment complex after being lured away by a man offering ice cream, say authorities. Within minutes, the neighborhood's residents were out in force, and it wasn't long before police were on the scene.

BUT JOCELYN WAS NOWHERE TO be found. For two hours, her frantic family could only pray that she'd be returned safely.

Little did they know their prayers were about to be answered – by a baby-faced high school freshman.

Temar and his buddies joined the search as soon as they heard a child had vanished. Their first effort, on foot, turned up nothing. But Temar was struck by a strange sensation, saying: "I had this gut feeling that I was going to find the little girl."

He borrowed a bike from a friend and took off, looking for anything that seemed out of place on the area streets. And that's when something caught his eye – a maroon car moving erratically, its driver obviously uncertain how to navigate the neighborhood's maze-like roadways.

Temar chased after the vehicle for 15 minutes, never letting it

"She runs to my arms and said, out of his sight. He eventually got close enough to see through the car's window – and spotted little Jocelyn cowering inside.

"I need to see my mommy," Temar recalled.

The tyke clung to her hero as he carried her back to her home, where a firefighter and a law enforcement official were alerted.

"She didn't want to leave me because she thought they were going to do something to her," the courageous teen said. "I told her, 'No, it's OK.'"

Needless to say, Jocelyn's family was overjoyed to have their precious child back.

THEY "WERE JUST SAYING THAT I was a hero, that I was a guardian angel, and that it was amazing I was there and able to find the girl," said Temar.

Police have named 73-year-old Harold Herr as a suspect. He's been behind bars on a parole violation since July 12. Meanwhile, Temar, a high-school athlete who plays basketball, football and runs track, is quick to brush off the hero label, saying: "I'm just a normal person that did a thing anyone else would do."

His proud mom, Tamika, added: "You just hope you raise your child the right way.

"He's learning what I tell him – to help others."

OSCAR winner Jon Voight is so desperate to forge a closer bond with his daughter Angelina Jolie that he's pleading with his "Ray Donovan" co-star Liev Schreiber to help, say sources.

But Liev, who co-starred with Angelina in "Salt," is not eager to take on the role of go-between for the two, who have had a stormy relationship since Voight divorced Angelina's mom when she was a small child.

"LIEV HAS KNOWN JON FOR a long time, but he doesn't want to get in the middle of any family drama," revealed a friend.

He begs co-star Liev for help

"Jon has been subtly nudging Liev to put in a good word for him," revealed the source. "He says, 'Tell Angelina what a dream I am to work with!'"

In 2010, Voight managed to mend fences with his daughter after a nearly 10-year estrangement. But they're still not close. In fact, Voight was said to be deeply hurt because Angelina, 38, didn't even tell him about her decision to have a preventative double mastectomy earlier this year.

"Jon told Liev that 'the door is only halfway open' between Angie and him," said the friend.

But an insider notes: "There's nothing Liev can do or say to make Angie warm up more to her dad."

JOEL DAUGHTER UPSET WITH CHRISTIE BRINKLEY

IN a heartbreaking case of sibling rivalry, Billy Joel's daughter is upset with her supermodel mom Christie Brinkley for appearing to play favorites with the kids.

Singer Alexa Ray Joel, 27, feels that Christie did little to help her break into showbiz while she's doing everything in her power to turn her gorgeous 15-year-old half sister Sailor into a fashion model, a source says.

Alexa, who's admitted to battling depression, made headlines in 2009 when she attempted suicide — reportedly following a breakup with a longtime boyfriend. She later claimed she was not trying to kill herself.

"She has always felt insecure about her looks," a source told The ENQUIRER. "And now Christie is making a huge deal about turning Sailor into a star. Alexa feels hurt and isolated from her mom."

Christie has become a cheerleader for her youngest child, declaring on Facebook: "I am soooooooooooooo EXCITED for my daughter Sailor! Her first fashion spread ever came out today!"

In contrast, Alexa, who once appeared in a Prell shampoo commercial, flopped as a model and is now concentrating on a music career.

Alexa is the only child of 59-year-old Brinkley and Joel, 64, who were married from 1985 to 1994. Sailor is the supermodel's daughter by her fourth husband, architect Peter Cook. Christie also has an 18-year-old son, Jack, by third hubby, oil heir Ricky Taubman.

Alexa is now struggling to escape from her half sister's shadow, says the source. "But she's sensitive, and it doesn't help that Christie is showering Sailor with praise so publicly."

Does Alzheimer's STOP CANCER?

★ People with Alzheimer's disease are far less likely to have cancer – and those with cancer are less likely to have the mind-robbing ailment.

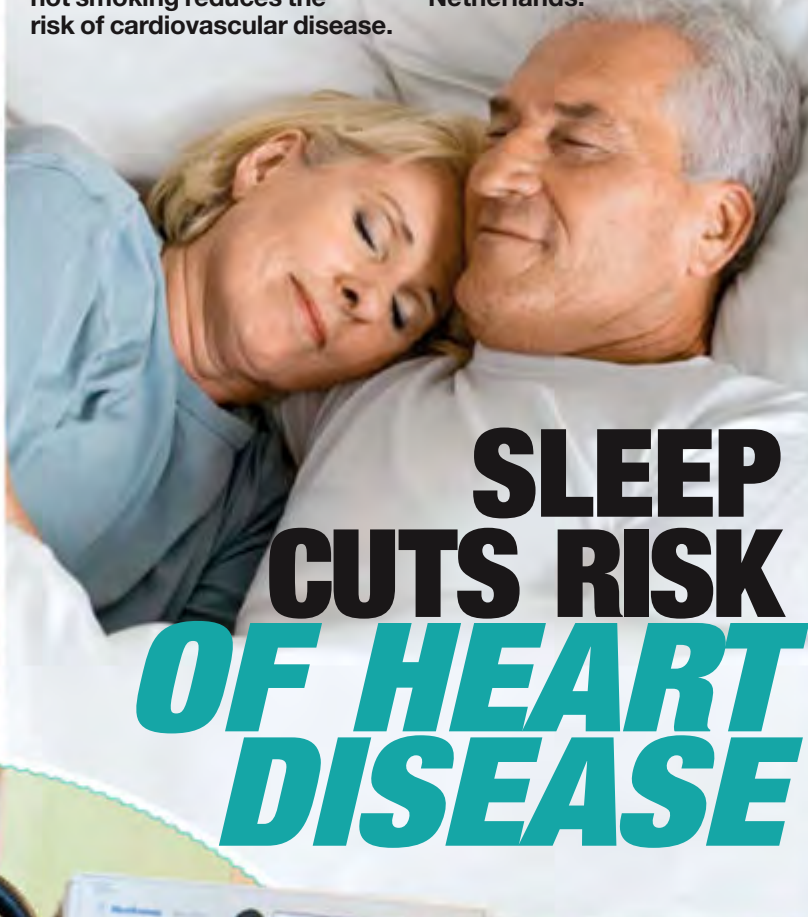

In a massive study of people over 60, Italian researchers discovered that the risk of cancer decreased by 43 percent in people with Alzheimer's while the risk of Alzheimer's was reduced by 35 percent for people with cancer.

Dr. Massimo Musicco of the National Research Council of Italy, hopes discovery of the link between the ailments will “help us better develop new treatments for both diseases.”

★ Getting too little sleep can trigger fatal heart attacks!

A study of nearly 15,000 adults found that adding quality sleep to a healthy diet, exercising, drinking alcohol in moderation and not smoking reduces the risk of cardiovascular disease.

The importance of sleep “should now be mentioned as an additional way to reduce the risk of cardiovascular disease,” notes Dr. Monique Verschuren of the National Institute for Public Health and the Environment in the Netherlands.

SLEEP CUTS RISK OF HEART DISEASE

STRONG MARRIAGE = good health

★ Just as a bad marriage can negatively impact health, a good one can enhance it.

A new study from Brigham Young University tracked nearly 1,700 married people for 20 years and found that those with higher levels of conflict were more likely to report poor health. But happily married couples were more apt to take care of themselves and each other.

“Couples that fight or argue frequently should get professional help to reduce their conflict because it is affecting their health,” advises BYU researcher Rick Miller.

★ A new breakthrough – involving nonsurgical brain stimulation – can help improve speech in vocally impaired stroke victims.

University of Pennsylvania researchers used a technique called transcranial magnetic stimulation (TMS) on a select group of stroke patients, and they experienced immediate and long-term improvement in their ability to communicate.

Stroke HOPE

The treatment works because of the brain's amazing capacity to “reorganize itself and rework some of the network...that represents specific cognitive skills,” explains Dr. Roy Hamilton of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School.

promote weight loss. Purely Inspired, available at Walmart for $9.97, comes in assorted varieties, including Raspberry Ketones and Konjac Root.

“This is a great product for men and women who are looking for supplements made with 100 percent pure ingredients to help them achieve their weight-loss goals,” say the manufacturers.

Great white shark

Shark Week (Premiere)

Sunday, Aug. 4, 8 p.m. ET,
Discovery

Discovery channel's finny summer favorite, "Shark Week," begins tonight and continues with predator-packed programming all week long. This year's event boasts the most-ever original specials: There's "Sharkpocalypse," which looks at how sharks are moving closer to shore where unsuspecting swimmers become lunch. "The Return of Jaws" features spectacular footage of great white sharks living and hunting off the shore of Cape Cod captured by the new robot "Shark Cam." "Megalodon: The Monster Shark Lives" searches for the 60-foot prehistoric shark that may be killing swimmers in South Africa. Eight more exciting specials plus the nightly talk show, "Shark after Dark," makes this "Shark Week" one to catch.

Unforgettable

Sunday, Aug. 4, 9 p.m. ET, CBS

Carrie Wells (Poppy Montgomery), the NYPD detective with the incredible indelible memory, her partner and ex-boyfriend, Detective Al Burns (Dylan Walsh), sarcastic coroner Joanne Webster (Jane Curtin) and Major Crimes Section leader Eliot Delson (Dallas Roberts) are back fighting crime in NYC in this always intriguing and exciting series, which began its second season on July 28. Tonight, Carrie goes undercover with a gang of bank robbers in hopes of finding and capturing its notorious behind-the-scenes criminal leader, who rarely shows his face. Sendhil Ramamurthy guest stars.

Paranormal Witness

Wednesday, Aug. 7, 9 p.m. ET, Syfy

Still scarier than any scripted show on TV, this first-person paranormal account series features re-enactments so terrifying they will haunt you long after the TV is off. Tonight's ferociously frightening episode tells the 2006 story of the Rockwell-Martin family, whose remote farmhouse in Maine came under attack by what the couple claim to be five werewolves. Their story is so convincingly filmed, you'll believe it too! If you love spooky tales around the campfire on summer nights but don't like camping, then this true-life spook show is your cup of wolfsbane!

Mabius & Williams

Reading, Writing & Romance (Made-for-TV Movie Premiere)

Saturday, Aug. 10, 9 p.m. ET, Hallmark Channel

Wayne Wenders (Eric Mabius) is a commercial actor whose career is literally in the toilet – his only claim to fame is an ad for irritable bowel syndrome medication. With his bills mounting up and no new acting jobs coming in, Wayne starts teaching Shakespeare at the local high school – a gig he grows to love, along with pretty English teacher Amy (Virginia Williams). But their love is forbidden by the school's no-fraternization policy – strictly enforced by Vice Principal Trautman (Adam Kulbersh), who has a crush on Amy himself. Eventually, Hollywood beckons and Wayne must choose between stardom and his love for Amy and his students in this sweet high school romance for all ages.

THE star of Discovery channel's hit reality show "Airplane Repo" is a phony, in the opinion of two former business acquaintances.

Ken Cage, 47, co-owner of International Recovery & Remarketing Group (IRG), claims in his Discovery channel bio that he's completed 1,200 high-end repossessions, including boats, airplanes, construction equipment and even racehorses.

But the company's former owner says that's not the whole story!

If Ken is saying he personally repossessed hundreds of airplanes and boats, Joe Dinardo points out that he believes Cage "doesn't even have a pilot's license or a captain's license."

DINARDO – A FORT LAUDERDALE-based private investigator and recovery agent who's handled approximately 25,000 global repossessions – owned IRG for nearly 10 years before selling it to Cage in 2005.

Dinardo stated that, in his opinion: "All of those stories Ken brags about on his Discovery channel bio – debtors trying to run over him with Cadillacs, having guns pointed at him, nearly being beaten with a shovel – they're incidents that either happened to other recovery agents he knows or stories that he's fabricated to make himself out to be a dangerous character."

And he isn't alone in his criticism.

Randy Craft, an Orlando-based private investigator and recovery agent who was contracted to do repossessions for IRG for nearly five years, depicts Cage as not well-respected within the industry. Craft says he's checked the ID numbers of some of the planes being "repossessed" on the show – and believes that they're privately owned aircraft Cage borrowed or "rented" for filming.

Craft also believes: "The producers obviously didn't check Ken and his team's credentials."

Katie Holmes, grow up and stop feeling sorry for yourself (Betrayed Katie Breaks Down, July 1)! You're 34 years old. Quit acting like a baby. You and Suri have a good life. There are millions of people out there who have it really bad, but still manage to be happy with their lives.

It doesn't get any sadder than Kris Jenner being delighted that daughter Kim Kardashian delivered her baby four weeks early. She didn't want the birth of Kate Middleton's baby to overshadow Kim's. How sick is that (Kris Jenner Hits Jackpot, July 1)? They should be thankful the baby is OK.

DESPITE a career playing bloodthirsty mobsters and tough-as-nails cops, actor Dennis Farina is remembered by relatives and friends as a guy with a true heart of gold, a family member told The ENQUIRER in an exclusive interview.

Farina, who worked as a Chicago cop until he was 37, became a household name as Det. Joe Fontana in "Law & Order," Lt. Mike Torello in "Crime Story" and bad guy Albert Lombard in "Miami Vice."

He died July 22 in Scottsdale, Ariz., at age 69 after suffering a blood clot in his lung.

"I loved Dennis like he was my own son and this feels just like losing a child," said a tearful Mary Darlene Cahill, the mother of Marianne Cahill, the actor's devoted girlfriend for 35 years.

"He lived a good life. He was such a good man. We all considered him to be such a huge part of our family. I am literally in shock because he seemed to be in great shape and had no health problems.

"Dennis' dad was a doctor so he was very health-conscious and did everything he needed to stay healthy.

"My daughter was by his side at the hospital when he passed. His death was so sudden. We are all very sad."

Added a close source: "Dennis had a heart of gold. If he saw you needed anything, he was right there to help.

"He was a good cop who took the motto to protect and serve very seriously, and when he didn't change. He was generous, never got a big head and had a smile for everyone."

The mustachioed actor is survived by Marianne, whom he called the love of his life, and three sons from his first marriage.

The modest star once told an interviewer: "My personality was formed by Chicago. It's very American, very straightforward...a very honest place."

Now, after an exhaustive years-long ENQUIRER investigation, the editors finally uncover what the government has been hiding about the circumstances surrounding the tragic flight – and what they found at the bottom of the sea.

Dale first wore the polyester shirt and wool vest combo in 1973. Wife Cathy dared him to wear it again – and he did

SIMPLY THE VEST

TEACHER Dale Irby's annual school photo is a case of deja vu all over again... and again...and again...

The recently retired physical education teacher at Prestonwood Elementary in Dallas, Texas, wore the same disco fashion clothes for the camera for 40 YEARS!

"A 1970s pointy-collared polyester shirt with matching coffee-colored wool sweater – that was my picture-taking uniform," says Dale, 63. "To tell you the truth, on my beginning-school teacher's salary back then, I didn't have a huge wardrobe. I probably had one other shirt and one other sweater vest."

The tradition started accidentally.

"I wore the outfit for my first school picture in 1973, then to my horror when I got the picture back from the 1974 sitting, I realized I'd worn the exact same clothes," he recalls. "When it came time for the 1975 picture, my wife Cathy, who's also a teacher, dared me to wear the outfit again."

He took her up on the dare – and things just snowballed from there.

"After that, I thought I'd wear the clothes for five years in a row, but after five pictures I said, 'Why stop?'" explains Dale. "So now I've got a pictorial record of my entire career."

Of course, one question people keep asking is how he fit into the same clothes for so many years.

"It got a big snug toward the end," he admits.

Meanwhile, Cathy, a language arts teacher, also retired after four decades in the Dallas-area school systems.

Dale and Cathy Irby have been married since 1975

"We're both very proud to have been educators all our careers," she says. "We did it because we love kids. And now to have this great album of pictures – it's fantastic. It's a special portrait of his 40 years' work."

DALE WAS EVERY KID'S favorite gym teacher at the grammar school. He was so popular, in fact, the school named its gymnasium after him.

He also became Cathy's favorite educator. They met in 1973 and started dating in the spring of the following year. The lovebirds married in 1975 and now have two grown children and three grandchildren – all living near them.

"We're so lucky having the grandkids to retire to," says Dale. "We're blessed."

And without school to return to in the fall, the two are planning to make their first trip in retirement to New England to see the leaves change.

"Everyone wants to experience that," says Cathy, 62.

But it's not likely that Dale will be bringing along his polyester shirt and wool sweater vest.

"I plan on retiring them to the back of the closet," he says with a laugh.
